DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to application communication filed on 9/1/2006.
2. Claims 1-16 are pending in the case.
3. Claims 1, 8, 15 and 16 are independent claims.

Priority

4. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

5. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The language of the claims raises a question as to whether the claims are directed merely to abstract ideas that are not tied to a technological art, environment, or machine which would result in a practical application producing a concrete, useful, and tangible result to form the basis of statutory subject matter under 35 U.S.C. 101. See MPEP § 2106

Claim 15:

Claim 15 recites a “computer program product” comprising a “computer process”. The recited “computer program product” is merely computer software that performs various functions. Thus, the recited “computer program product” is comprised merely of computer software and is not a process, a machine, a manufacture or a composition of matter.

Accordingly, the claim fails to recite statutory subject matter as defined in 35 U.S.C. § 101.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being DeStefano by U.S. Patent No. 6,075,531 of record.

Claim 1:

DeStefano teaches a method of managing application windows in an electronic device, the method comprising: opening the application windows of at least two different application programs onto a display; (seecol. 1 lines 58-65, col. 2 lines 43-49, Figure 11)

detecting activation of a grip area for managing application windows on the display; (see col. 6 line 65 - col. 7 line 21 – Examiner interprets the pointer to be equivalent to the recited "grip area")

detecting a change in the location of the activated grip area on the display, indicated by an input device; (see abstract, col. 7 lines 38-45, Figure 3) and changing the size of at least two application windows on the basis of the change in the location of the grip area (see abstract, col. 12 lines 30-46).

Claim 2:

DeStefano's Figure 11 illustrates showing the grip area for managing application windows on the display.

Claim 3:

DeStefano teaches changing the sizes of the application windows during the change in the location of the activated grip area (see abstract, col. 14 lines 35-60, Figure 15).

Claim 4:

DeStefano teaches changing the sizes of the application windows such that the changed application windows cover as large a portion of the display as possible (see abstract, col. 4 lines 8-18).

Claim 5:

DeStefano teaches detecting selection of the application windows to be changed from among the opened application windows; and changing the size of the application windows to be changed only (see col. 8 lines 15-41, col. 9 lines 14-30, col. 9 lines 55-65, col. 14 lines 16-19 - grip span selection changes the size of the "affected" windows).

Claim 6:

DeStefano anticipates scaling the contents of the application windows in proportions to the changes in the sizes of the application windows (see col. 4 lines 24-43, col. 7 lines 6-10 – application window is defined to include content, therefore when the window size changes, the content within the corresponding window changes).

Claim 7:

DeStefano teaches wherein detecting a change in the location of the grip area comprises: detecting a direction of motion of the grip area from a first location of the grip area to a second location of the grip area as well as the distance between the first location and the second location, and changing the sizes of the application windows on the basis of the detected direction of motion and distance (see abstract, col. 2 lines 43-55, col. 12 lines 30-46, Figure 15).

Claims 8-14:

Claims 8-14 are apparatus claims and are substantially encompassed in method claims 1-7 respectively; therefore the apparatus claims are rejected under the same rationale as method claims 1-7 above.

Claim 15:

Claim 15 includes a computer program product to implement the steps that are substantially encompassed in method claim 1; therefore the claim is rejected under the same rationale as method claim 1 above.

Claim 16:

Claim 16 is an apparatus claim and is substantially encompassed in method claim 1; therefore the apparatus claim is rejected under the same rationale as method claim 1 above.
